

INSANITY INCREASES

IN FREDERICK PIERCES' "Mobilizing the Mid-Brain," one mentioned certain important conditions which have direct bearing on our national life. The author states that in seventy years unless the rate of insanity is radically checked, it will be intolerable for those who remain in health to support the burden of those who are mentally or nervously ill. This will hinder the nation in its political and economical programs. Every year the number of insane people increases. When the situation becomes a personal matter with the populace it will be too late to act. Insanity is a disease. Steps must be taken regardless of personal feelings to rid the county of this swift invader which is threatening its future welfare.

WHAT SHALL WE DO

EVERY once in a while a group of people become alarmed over something. The first thing they do is to call a meeting. At this meeting there are drawn up resolutions and all agree that the situation is serious. Then we meet our old friend "Somebody ought to do something about it." We are always ready to agree to that much. However, that Action is necessary. This city may assertion accomplishes but little. well take pride in the fact that over two-hundred men met together every evening last week at the local Y.M.C.A. to organize the city into constructive religious work. Denominations were forgotten. Each man worked for the good of the group. Personal service was begun. That is action. May success crown their undertaking.

STUDENT SUICIDES

FOR THE last few weeks the Papers have told the stories of numerous student suicides. Young people become despondent over life and decide to end it all. There is the "open door." Why not use it? Certainly life has no claim on the individual if he wants to die. The other side of this matter, however, is serious. No one who has built up a well-balanced personality wants to die, no matter how curious he is about eternity. Critics cannot say that any system is at fault since reports come from all parts of the country. This indicates that it is a peculiarity individualistic situation. "Tomorrow I may be with yesterday's seven thousand years," says the Rubayat. On the other hand why should students "dance with death before they have learned to walk with life?"

WHO IS THE HANDSOME MAN?

Eccentric Costumes Appear At Men's Org. Dance

Kate Benton and Allan Goddard Deemed the Most Clever Couple

Cowboys and cowgirls; old fashioned ladies and frock coated men; little girls in short dresses and boys in short pants; hoboes and people arrayed in gunny sacks all helped to give the proper air to the mens' org. dance last Friday evening.

The dance was held in Andrews' gymnasium. The gym was bare, having no decorations at all, the better to carry out the idea of hard times. From nine to twelve the motley crowd danced to the strains of Cianfoni's orchestra. About seventy students made up the attendance.

At about the middle of the evening the grand march was announced. At this time the prize for the most outlandish costume was to be awarded. Everyone paraded around the gym looking his or her best or silliest as they passed the judges. During the next dance the lucky couple was announced. The fortunate pair were Allan Goddard and Kate Benton. They were presented with a box of chocolates.

At this time also Sara Hales was crowned queen of beauty and presented with the loving cup, given by the Bachelor's in token of the honor.

SETTLE IS EDITOR OF NEW FRESHMAN BIBLE

A new Freshman bible, or Y. M. C. A. handbook, is now under way under the capable supervision of Ed. manager of the publication.

A staff is being appointed to assist with the work. While all appointments have not been made those now completed install Allan Goddard as mens sport editor, Thelma Patton in charge of women's sports, and Melvin Harter as Y. M. C. A. writer.

Many new departments are to be instituted in the new book. Is to be even more comprehensive than that of last year. The Freshman of next year are to be pitied for having even more to learn, and to carry around with them than was the case this year.

Wanted Contris

This being the season when appeals for this and that are current, The Don will add its voice to the rest.

It is said that people like to see the their names in print. Very well. The Don likes to print things of interest to its readers, but it is not able to find out anything without aid. For that purpose there has been installed in the hall beside our alley a note box. If anyone knows of any occurrence that might be interesting to the Don's readers, if anyone has any convictions, or criticisms, or suggestions he would like to have published, if anyone has written any sketch, or poem, or other matter, if he will place it in the box it will receive attention. In so serving the Don, the Don will be better able to serve the readers.

Men's Beauty Contest Promised For Next Week

Bulletin: Next Monday is the men's beauty contest, say the committee in charge, and votes will sell for a penny each. The entrants, and their backers are as follows:

Lawrence Minge	Murine For The Eyes.
Clarence Trickey	Three-flower Rouge.
Orest Cianfoni	El Pinand Perfumerie, Paris, France.
Hendrik Van Rensselaer	Kissproof Lipstick.
Bob McKean	Kupenheimer Good Clothes.
Alvin Stauffer	Woodbury Facial Soap.
Lloyd Morris	Arrow Collars.
Dick Ewert	Pond's Vanishing Cream.
Gerald Twist	Pond's Vanishing Cream.
David Ross	Golden-glint Shampoo.
Jimmy Smith	Le Mur Permanents.

A men's beauty contest!

To be held by the A. W. S. in an endeavor to raise sufficient funds to be given in March.

Exactly when this contest will be held has not been definitely decided—but it will be very soon. The male contingent of the college is already engrossed in various efforts to beautify their facial expressions. New spring suits are blossoming forth. Shoes are extremely shiny, and noses quite otherwise.

Instead of being backed by clubs, the candidates will be backed by famous cosmetic companies.

Agitation will be probably even stronger than in the girl's beauty contest. Such intense rivalry is ex-istant between many of the male beauties that excitement should prevail and votes soar high. The big handsome men will also wish to aid the A. W. S. treasury in "putting over one of the biggest dances of the season."

Among those names which are expected to appear on the list are: Clarence Trickey, Orest Cianfoni, Dick Ewert, Malcolm Isaacson, Hendrik Van Rensselaer, Lawrence Minge, Lon McIntire, Jimmy Smith—but there are countless others. Yes, voting should run high. And, to repeat, excitement should be intense!

Co-ed Tells How She Does It To Reporter

Uses Powder And Rouge But Thinks Beauty Aids Should Be Limited

"Yes, I use powder and rouge," said Miss Sara Hales, winner in the recent beauty contest sponsored by the Brotherhood Bachelors of the college, when she was interviewed by a Don reporter today.

Miss Hales also admitted that she used lipstick, but she does not think it should be used heavily to be attractive.

Sports clothes, or simple dresses should be worn to school said the pretty co-ed. The girls who come to school dressed as if they were ready for a party, and girls who wear excessive jewelry are out of place on a campus.

Miss Hales who is now a freshman expects to finish junior college next year, and after that she intends to go on and get her diploma at some other college. Just where she will go has not been decided.

It is still a question whether or not gentlemen prefer blondes.

Miss Hales who is evidently the gentlemen's choice in Santa Ana, belongs to neither type distinctly. Her hair and eyes are a medium brown, and her skin fair. The two nearest rivals in the beauty race, Puritan Seitz, and Goldie Jacobson, represented the blond and brunette types respectively.

J. C. Student Inherits Money From Aunt

Everett Trostel, "Millionaire" Student, Says he Will Specialize in Engineering

Everet Trostel, the student millionaire.

That is what the friends of the Santa Ana junior college boy have named him. Within the last week, wealth was inherited by him that makes his wallet bulge. When the will of his aunt, Josephine Litzaw, was petitioned for probate, the fact was disclosed that Trostel has come into a $60,000 estate, in the form of a trust fund.

Among the students of the college, however, Trostel is the same as if he hadn't suddenly become the student Morgan.

Trostel intends to continue his college education. He is specializing in engineering, with plans to follow the study of chemical engineering, possibly at the California Institute of Technology. He has established a high scholarship record both in Santa Ana high school, from which he was graduated, and during his first term in junior college.

Although Trostel would not admit it, the rumor is current about the campus that many fair co-eds have begun to cast coy glances at the wealthy youth with the new automobile sedan.

The trust fund will pay Trostel about $6000 a year, the will showed. Trostel will come into possession of the estate at the age of 30.

Two Debates with U. S. C. are Scheduled For This Week

Mussolini, the Italian Dictator, Is Subject under Discussion

A debate with U. S. C. will be an occasion for much interest this Friday, at 3:00 P. M. The verbal war will take place at U. S. C.

Edward Riniker and Dean Cowley will uphold the negative for the Santa Ana College team on the question. Resolved: that Mussolini is a benefactor to Italy.

Next Wednesday, March 9, here to argue out the same question, in an endeavor to arrive at some conclusion. Hendrik Van Rensselaer and James Walker compose the affirmative home team.

The debating teams have already had an extremely heavy season. They have been going strong in the four debates already held, culminating in this, the fifth of the season's confabs.

Since Mussolini is a figure of great interest today the subject of the coming debate is a timely and lively one. As much work has been put in by the debaters, as much research has been done, and as such a strong opponent is to be faced, the debate offers especial interest from every angle. And as the debate at Santa Ana will probably be arranged for the regular assembly period, an audience for outnumbering most debate crowds, is anticipated.

Teachers' Opinions on The Honor System Now Are Given

Lasby and Watson Favor Idea McKee Fisk Doubts Feasibility of Plan

Individual faculty opinions of the honor system present both sides of the case. In an interview with three members of the faculty, two of them were in favor of it and one was opposed to it.

Miss Lasby expressed approval of the plan and stated: "If you are going to be honest in life you might as well get the training in school. It ought to work because after all, the problems of the honor system are the same as those of life and people ought to take the responsibility. The whole thing lies in whether students will support it or not."

Approval was also the verdict of seen it carried out, especially at Stanford and it is successful. If students are resolved to cheat they will anyway and teachers can not prevent it. And if they do prevent it the student will still want to cheat. The honor system would develop principle. The age of the student makes no difference and I think it should be started in high school or even in the lower grades."

Mc Kee Fisk doubted the possibility of carrying out the system.

"The principle is a splendid thing but it will not work in a co-educational institution because the standards of morality are lower than they are in any other kind of an institution. Chivalry triumphs over honor. I am afraid student leadership would not be strong enough. The school sense of honor is warped by a desire to protect one another and students don't see that they should protect themselves."

Why Check Out Books?

Why bother with the red tape conneted with the due process of drawing books from the library? When one signs his name to the little card in the front of the book, he is not only bothered with this trouble, but is expected to return the book sometime. He is also takes the chane of being assessed several shekels, if he doesn't happen to finish with the book by the time the librarian expected him to.

Sometimes one goes into the library to get a one and only book with the assignment for the fourth period class the next day with intentions of getting the lesson done on time, or a little before time for a change. But when the precious volume appears to be conspicuous in its absance, he decides that he did not want to study anyway; he will have plenty of time before school, if he gets up a little earlier. But in the morning the book has still failed to arrive. The frantic students wonders if somebody thinks he has a monopoly on the library. Returning the third period, he again hope-fully searches the shelves, but in vain.

Frantically he consults the librarian. She kindlys gives him the name of the book-holder. By chance he locates this errant user of the book, informs him of the injustice he is committing against society, expresses the opinion that a fine of fifty cents an hour should be imposed for overtime, and having secured the object of search, appreciatively complies with the requirements of th due process in checking out books.

Suggestion Is The Way

MANY women and most men can be taught best, and what one wants them to learn by suggestion rather than by direct instruction. There is a queer twist in most adult minds, and in many young ones that makes them resent that which comes as a command and is compulsory.

Subservience to authority, obedience of rules, it too frequently looked upon as Servitude rather than a Service.

A respect for, and obedience to discipline makes our journey through life easier, happier, and more productive of profitable rewards. All nature, all life, is governed by laws—how, then, can one infinitesimal human think to survive without an observance of discipline.

Literary

Everyone who enjoys the privilege, sometimes cultivated, of reading for pleasure and according to the diction of his own taste, has a favorite author or who makes a personal appeal and is like a dear friend in the intimacy which appears between reader and author. This may come about because of agreement on certain views held by both parties. Or it may be because the reader is intrigued by the style, or the particular subject most deliberated on. For some people, it is E. Phillips Oppenheim, some one else has a great liking for Vachel Lindsay, while a third will announce to the world his passion for Max Beer-holm. None of these claim my affections as much as Christopher Morley, dean of familiar modern essays, charming exponent of a comfortable philosophy of life.

Although my days may be spent with Pope, Aristotle, Galileo, St. Augustine of Voltar, when those rare moments of leisure come, Morley is the ideal companion.

His essays alone would furnish material for a healthy theme. There are five volumes which confess to being essays; a sixth which is the adventures of Gissing, the synthetic dog; a seventh which is catalogued under "Travels"; and an eighth which presents some ideas on criticism. The Urchin, the Urchiness, Titania, and Dame Quickly all become familiar friends before one has finished the first volume. Literary acquaintance abound for Morley is an author of "Casuals of the Sea"; Lawrence Sterne, creator of "My Uncle Toby"; Hilaire Belloc, young poet; and scores of others become second nature. Walt Whitman occupies a position all his own for Morley is an ardent lover of his philosophy and poetry. "Inward Ho!" is introduced by the author as "an attempt to probe those disturbances and ecstasies that receives it's quota of attention in an extract from the same book, "Many a man has been unfitted for literature and certainly for journalism, by too injudicious a desire to tell the truth." One more quotation which is my favorite. "Life is a favorite book lent by the Demiurge to humanity, with the injunction to mark the things they like especially. And the Demiurge is annoyed because they insist on marking the wrong passages."

"Thunder on the Left" is the novel which most people think of when the name of Morley appears on the horizon but if that is the only side one knows, much of the goodness is lost. "Parnassas on Wheels" and the sequel, "The Haunted Bookshop" are very delightful romances with a decidedly bookish atmosphere. They deal with the adventures of Helen McGill and Roger Mifflin and stoop to mystery mixed with German spies in the latter volume. "Pandora Lifts the Lid" s one decidedly mysterious in flavor which lacks the value that some of the other books have. The whole blame does not rest on Morley however for it was written in collaboration with Don Marquis. The latest attempt is "Pleased to Meet You," not yet out in book form. It is a humorous satire on the small governments of Europe and is suspiciously those of the noted "Graustark" books.

Poetry is another field which provides entrancing possibilities and there are numerous slender books of these lyric arrangements and deal with the subjects which one would find suitable as "Songs for a Little House." Short stories in "Tales From a Roll-top Desk" run the gamet of subjects with "Gloria and the Garden of Sweden" perhaps the most fanciful. It deals with a Swedish beauty who entrances the young men who eat at her father's cafe into taking exercises and doing without warmth while her father pilfers the coal from their boarding houses.

If those who have read Morley do not agree with my opinion let them try Conrad or Hergesheimer both admired by my friend but as different as night from day.

And He Worried About It

The sun's heat will give out in ten million years more—
 And he worried about it.
 It will sure give out then if it doesn't before—
 And he worried about it.
 It will sure give out, so the scientists said
 In all the scientific books he had read
 And the whole boundless universe then would be dead—
 And he worried about it.

And some day the earth would fall into the sun—
 And he worried about it.
 Just as sure and straight as if shot from a gun—
 And he worried about it.
 "When strong gravitation unbuckles her straps,
 Just picture," he said, "what a fearful collapse!
 It will come in a million years, perhaps."
 And he worried about it.

His wife took in washing—half a dollar a day—
 He didn't worry about it.
 His daughter sewed shirts the rude grocer to pay—
 He didn't worry about it.
 While his wife beat the tireless rub-a-dub-dub
 On the washboard drum of her old tub,
 He sat by the stove and he just let her rub—
 He didn't worry about it.

Beautiful music should be detected issuing from within the portals of the Y. M. C. A. room almost any day now.

The radio was purchased from the Robertson electrical corporation and will be installed and in working order this week.

The Bachelors have turned out all of their money from the contest over to the Y. M. for the purpose of keeping the radio in good condition.

Y. Girls Consider Choice Of "Stuck-up"

Despite the dark and gloomy clouds, a number of loyal girls turned out to the Y. W. pot luck supper held Tuesday evening in the hut.

The Asilomar student conferences were presented by Muriel Smith and Kate Benton, both of whom attended the conference last year. The girls were asked to be seriously considering the choice of "Stuck Up" for this year, and any girl who is interested was asked to hand in her name to Muriel Smith.

The conference to be held at Whittier March 19 and 20, was discussed. This conference will be attended by men and women from all Southern California junior colleges.

It will be necessary to attend this in order to go to the Pacific Palisades conference. This convention will be held the following week end.

Miss Lasby led a discussion on the Pan-Pacific problem.

After this talk the girls were asked to fill out questionnaires on the subject, giving their opinions on the situation. These questionnaires are being given to college students all over the United States.

James Walker will be host to the La Boheme Club at his home 203 E. Chesnut next Monday evening.

The program will be a discussion on the Irish Movement and William Butler Yeats. Reports on this subject will be made by Mary Jane Owens and Catherine Swales.

Press Club Plans To Have Pins

The Press club is planning to meet every month from now until summer. Although no definite plans have been made for the March meeting it will probably be a combination business and social meeting.

The club has selected pins which are to be the badge of the club. The order will be sent in a short time, so if any of the members would like to have one, if they give their name to Mary Elizabeth Rutledge or Kate Benton they will have one ordered for them.

S. A. LOSES SIGHT OF CHAMPIONSHIP IN DEBATE

Owing both to the defeat of both the affirmative and of the negative debating teams of Santa Ana college, it has been eliminated from a chance to compete in the third series of the Southern California finals.

Proving that the government of Russia was sufficiently stable to deserve recognition by the United States, the Riverside junior college debating team defeated Lon McIntyre and Clarence Trickey, Santa Ana word warriors in the league clash which was held February 21.

The affirmative upheld by Santa Ana, on the question, Resolved, that we favor the present policy of the United States towards Russia, argued that it would be dangerous to recognize Russia at present.

James Walker served as chairman of the debate, introducing the speakers.

Staff Artists Design New Heads For The "Don"

New mastheads are to adorn the pages of the Don.

A staff of competent artists are laboring over new designs for different pages. Paul Alberts has been requested to work out ideas for a head for the first page. The motif to be adopted is left in his hands to be worked out. Much time will be devoted to that especial head, as it occupies the leading position in the paper.

Don Miner is planning a head for the sport page. It will be very different from the one now used, combining many new and original ideas.

A cartoon for the purpose of heading the Commenter column is being designed by Kenneth Harbert, a comic artist of some reknown in the college.

The society columns will also have a new head, perhaps leaving out the Spanish idea of the Dons. Frances Forcey is to draw the plans for this.

AIMS OF THE W. A. A. ARE STATED BY INSTRUCTOR

The aims of the W. A. A. as given by Miss Anderson, head of the girls physical education department, are as follows:-

To have all the college women out for some athletic activity.

To build up the W. A. A. organization so that physical efficiency may be improved.

To make the point system on such a basis that our points will be accepted by senior colleges.

"To do all of these things" said Miss Anderson, "we must have the cooperation of the women students."

The following sports will be offered if there are sufficient number of signatures and attendance is assured for a class.

sports	number required	season
Hockey	22	now
Tennis	15	year round
Swimming	15	year round
Baseball	18	Spring
Hiking	15	year round

"Reubon, Reubon, I've been thinking
What a nice world this world would be

If the men had all departed
Far beyond the northern sea."

So think the women of the college. Men are not such necessary requirements for a good time, they declare. Girls can have a very nice time without them around.

The girls of the A. W. S. are going to prove their theory as soon as spring has arrived for sure, by throwing a beach party for women only.

The plan met the heartiest approval when announced at a recent A. W. S. meeting by Catherine Best, president.

QUESTION OF STUDES AT DANCES ARISES

Shall or shall not high school students be allowed to attend Santa Ana college dances? This is the problem to be faced by the new social commissioner, Mary Jane Owens. The executive board appointed a committee to investigate the question, and Mary Jane is chairman. Other members are Kenneth Schroll and Lon McIntire. An extensive campaign is to be launched to find the attitude existing in the college. Mr. Hammond will be interviewed.

During the past this has been one of the leading questions. The past two years have seen its entire prohibition.

Saints Defeat Don Racquetters

The forfeiting of three matches because of the absence of candidates in the J. C.-S. A. H. S. tournament was the cause of the Dons losing by a score of 10-7 last Thursday and Friday.

Foust won first singles from McPherson in a hotly contested match which went 9-9, 6-2, 6-2. Trostel won second singles from Stien 6-0, 6-3. Barnett lost third singles to McDonald 3-6, 3-6.

DON SPIKESTERS TRIUMPH OVER POMONA YEARLINGS 80 TO 50

Bright Of Pomona, High Point Man. Morris Second
Aubrey Reinhardt Sets New Record In Discus

Featured by the shattering of two college records and one conference record, the Dons triumphed over the Pomona freshmen 80 to 50. The meet was complete with a good share of surprising performances that indicated that Santa Ana will be a leading contender for high honors in the conference.

Aubrey "Tiny" Reinhardt took the spectators off their feet with a tremendous heave of the discus. The platter sailed out over and struck terra firma 123 feet and 3 1/2 inches from the ring. This broke the college record by 9 feet 5 1/2 inches and the conference mark by 2 feet 8 1/2 inches.

Bright, of the Pomona team, was high point man with 11 digits. He won first place in the shot and javelin and took the third in the discus. For Santa Ana, Morris ranked high winning the high jump, taking second in the javelin breaking the college record with a throw of 152 feet 6 inches, and thirds in the shot and broad jump for a total of 10 points.

Wardwell and McMillan performed well each taking seven points to help swell the Dons' total. The former placed second in the low hurdles and third in the highs while while the latter reversed the order. Both tied for first in the pole-vault with Rozell.

McIntire lost first place in the 440 by a scant 6 inches after a neck-and-neck finish with Cobb of Pomona. Willis Field also lost the mile to Stanton by a narrow margin.

The Dons were strengthened slightly by the addition of a few high

Saints by default. Had the remaining members of the Don's team been present it is thought that the match would have been easily won.

Although a better type of tennis was exhibited in this match than in the tournament with U. S. C. Dental College the result of lack of practice was still in evidence.

The following men are scheduled to play off matches this week: Foust vs. Trostel, Ewert vs. Yale, Warner vs. Barnett, Rozelle vs. Harbert.

Pirates Win Final Basketball Contest

A large and enthusiastic crowd of spectators watched the Santa Ana college five drop a fast game to Pasadena in the last four minutes of play. The final score stood Pasadena 34, Santa Ana 30.

The Dons snatched the lead from the Pirates in the first three minutes of play and maintained for opening half which ended with Santa Ana on the long end of a 14-15 score.

Immediately after the beginning of the second half the locals started out to increase their lead, but Pasadena was determined and added to their score as well. At one time the visitors held a one point margin, but soon after the Dons were again ahead after sensational shots from the middle of the court by Labrucherie.

Four minutes before the gun sounded, a Pirate forward sank two long shots which broke a 30-30 tie. In the remaining period, Coach Scott's men were unable to find the basket and so lost their second game to Pasadena.

Labrucherie was the bright light of the evening, turning in a record of 16 points. Edgar, unable to locate the basket in his accustomed manner, scored but seven digits.

Smith and Kokx started at guards and played an excellent defensive game. Harter and Allee alternated at center, the latter making his best showing of the year.

Christian College To Meet Dons Fri.

San Bernardino has cancelled the track meet to have been held with Santa Ana Saturday, March 6. Lack of sufficient candidates for a team was stated as the reason.

Coach Harris has arranged for the Christian college to appear Friday, March 5 at 3 p. m. in place of the San Bernardino meet. Dope shows them to be slightly weaker than the Pasadena J. C. after placing second to the Pirates in a recent triangular meet.

Citrus Drops 43-22 Contest

Citrus college took a good trouncing from the Don's last Wednesday night with the final score standing Santa Ana 43, Citrus 22. The game was rather rough and very few fouls were called.

Labrucherie ran away with his point honors with a total of 18 points. Edgar came next with 11. These boys played very good games in their respective positions. Harter and Allee alternating at center kept the floor pretty warm. Harter scored 8 points and Allee 2.

Kokx and Smith spoiled the attempts of the Citrus forwards to score from close in.

He Learned From Others

A business man who has been more than ordinarily successful, was asked to sum up, briefly, the reasons for his success.

His reply was: "Combined experience. Any individual's experience is necessarily limited. I have frequently found other men's experience more valuable to me than my own."

The First National's great service is the combined experience of many bankers.
